

Leadership Safety Coaching

TRAIN-THE-TRAINER WORKSHOP

HIGH-IMPACT ACCIDENT REDUCTION

Supervisors are in a position to influence worker safety either for good or otherwise. Most supervisors don't have the latest training and tools for coaching workers to perform their jobs safely. This training leverages a supervisors' position and influence to make significant gains in accident reductions.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

Supervisors constantly communicate priorities and strategies to their workers, whether they intend to or not. With training, supervisors can take active control of the messages they send to promote safety as an organizational value. They can set levels of expectation that point everyone in the direction of safety excellence and exert a positive influence on the formation of safety culture.

The training contains the latest behavioral coaching techniques and directly applies them to improving safety. A model for counseling problem employees or addressing serious safety situations is also included. The design of the training utilizes advanced learning techniques and helps attendees to apply the models in the classroom to realitybased scenarios right out of the workplace.
